The special issue invites a selected number of top-ranking oral papers published in ICME2010 to submit an extended version of the conference papers. The extended version must contain at least 30% new content compared to the conference version. The new content may include descriptions of technical and implementation details, improved algorithms, more or better experiment results, etc. The authors are required to submit a separate document describing the difference between the extended version and the conference version. All the submitted papers will go through the same review process as that for the regular TMM paper submissions. Given the tight schedule, there will not be enough time for major revision. If a paper requires a major revision, the paper will be rejected or channeled to a regular issue. Therefore when preparing your submission, it is wise to try your best to make your paper publishable as it is.

Papers should be formatted according to the IEEE Transactions on Multimedia guidelines for authors (see: http://www.ieee.org/organizations/society/tmm/author\_info.html). Mandatory overlength page charges and color charges will apply. Manuscripts (both 1-column and 2-column versions are required) should be submitted electronically through the online IEEE manuscript submission system at <http://tmmieee.manuscriptcentral.com/>. When selecting a manuscript type, authors must click on ICME Special Issue. A copyright form with the manuscript number on the top of the page is required to be completed, signed and faxed to 1-732-562-8905 at the time of submission.
